AIKEN NEWS.

MR. THOMAS B. MORGAN APPOINTED TO COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Aiken, Oct. 29.—Thomas B. Morgan, Esq., has been appointed on the county board of education to succeed Mr. Hayne R. Rice, who resigned to accept the appointment of Governor Ansel on the State board of education. Mr. Rice has been a member of the county board for a number of years, and while his friends regret that he will be no longer connected with the educational affairs of the county, they are glad that he will fill the position with ability. Mr. Morgan is a prominent attorney of the Aiken Bar and is well fitted to fill a place on the county board.

Clampon Snake Slayer.

Mr. James Wingard, of this city, has the record for a slayer of rattlesnakes. Recently he has killed seven on his premises.

Liquors Bought.

On Friday the county board of control met to inspect the whiskey samples and buy the stock of liquors for the coming quarter. About seventy five bids were submitted for the sale of whiskey to the county dispensary. The awards have not yet been made.

Fine Estate Transferred.

Mr. William H. Barnard, one of Aiken's winter cottagers, has made a deed of his fine estate in this city to his wife, Mrs. Little M. Barnard, for $100, which makes the deed a mere gift. This is probably as fine an estate as there is in the State, the value of which could hardly be reckoned. Mr. Barnard has not been in Aiken for the past year or two, and the place "The Barnard Villa," was rented to other parties, and it is said that the rental per season was $10,000.

GENERAL NEWS.

NEGRO BURNED IN GEORGIA.

A negro named John Wilkes was lynched at Byron, Ga., Saturday night. The negro had robbed two small boys of 75 cents and had attempted other robberies and when the marshal made an effort to arrest him he whipped out a large revolver and attempted to shoot the officer. There was a general mix up, and within a short time the negro was locked up. At a late hour unknown persons forced an entrance, dragged the negro from his cell and after carrying him a short distance, the body was riddled with bullets. It was then burned upon a log fire prepared for the occasion. The charred remains were taken up and viewed by a large crowd.

LARGE CARGO OF CHILDREN BROUGHT TO PORT.

The Anchor liner, Caledonia, which arrived in New York October 24th, after a tempestuous trip, brought along 300 children, ranging in age from two weeks to seven years. Most of them were below two years. It was said to be the largest cargo of children ever brought to this country on any one ship. They were Scotch people, nothing more or less than the children of the poor, brought to this country to be sold as slaves.

They say that "bummy brandy" simply knocks the socks off of "fuss X," "eighty horse power," or anything else even gotten up to make a fellow a fool. Just pour some into that hole in your face, and you'll be howling maniac in schedule time. Some even claim that "it will make a

SENATOR TILLMAN SOON TO SPEAK AT ORANGEBURG UPON RACE QUESTION.

The hospital association of Orangeburg has extended an invitation to Senator B. R. Tillman to deliver an address at that city, the proceeds of admission to be applied to improvements at the hospital.

Senator Tillman will lecture on the race question, and a number of reputable citizens of Orangeburg, both white and black, deplore the fact that such a subject has been decided upon. It is believed that this theme will cause ill feeling between the races, and it is sincerely regretted in some quarters that a subject of this nature has been chosen.

BARNWELL MAN ASSASSINATED.

Mr. R. Friendly Weeks, a prominent business man of Barnwell county, was assassinated in his room over his store Saturday night. The assassin got away and the crime was not discovered until Sunday morning.

All his money was found intact in his room, the mount checking up with his books.

POLICE RAID GAMBLING JOINT IN COLUMBIA.

A gambling joint above Crescent restaurant was raided Sunday morning, and as a result six men are under arrest and the gambling paraphernalia of the place confiscated.

BIRMINGHAM DRY.

Birmingham Ala., Oct. 28.—Jefferson county, after one of the hottest campaigns in its history, has gone dry. The city of Birmingham gave a majority of 329 against prohibition.

The feature of the election was the presence of thousands of women and children at the poll. They paraded the streets with banners, sang hymns and pleaded with voters and it is believed that they played an important part in carrying the county for prohibition.

Rev. S. H. Zimmerman Dead.

Rev. S. H. Zimmerman, financial agent of the Columbia college, died at 245 this morning, after a protracted illness at his home in Columbia.

Shealy-Lindler.

At the parsonage of St. Peter's (Diney Woods) church, Oct. 23, 1907, Charlie F. Lindler and Bessie I. Shealy were united in the bonds of holy wedlock. Rev. E. J. Sox, officiating.

Major-Mars.

"THE MERRY MILK MAIDS"

Mrs. Royal Shannonhouse, with Miss Julia Hattiwanger as her accomplished and faithful accompanist, is busy teaching and drilling a large coterie of our young people, in the end of bringing out on the stage of our opera house the very bright and beautiful operetta "The Merry Milkmaids." The operetta is gay and lovely and graceful and besides fine local talent, two or three accomplished singers from outside will take part, notably Miss R. H. Coomer, of Batesburg, soprano, and Mr. Avila Lumpkin of Columbia, tenor. "The Merry Milkmaids" will be performed before the public, very probably the second week of November. —Edgefield Chronicle.

BANKS FAILED

BECAUSE OF THE GREAT FLURRY AMONG WALL STREET GAMBLERS

New York has been having a taste of high finance for the last ten days. Some of the bubbles on which Wall Street flourishes exploded and as a consequence a number of small banks which had loaned money on the bubbles went to the wall. The larger banks and trust companies were saved by Morgan and Rockefeller advancing them large sums.

President Roosevelt's Man Friday Courtesy, also went to the aid of the gamblers and helped them out of the trouble. There was great excitement for several days.

The institutions which closed their doors Friday, with the sums due deposited were:

The United States Exchange Bank, $100,000.

International Trust Company, about $100,000.

The Borough Bank of Brooklyn, $1,400,000.

The Brooklyn Bank, $2,300,000.

The First National Bank of Brooklyn, $3,500,000.

The First National Bank of Brooklyn, the Williamsburg Trust Company and the International Trust Company were allied institutions. None of these companies had any important business connection with the larger bank which are representatives of the city's financial affairs. Several large trusts companies had gone up before Friday.

OFFICER OBEYED ORDERS

"Join at Once," Orders of Superior are Carried out Promptly.

A smart young officer belonging to a cavalry corps in India was sent on sick leave to the convalescent station of Simla, and, while recovering his health among the hills there, was robbed of his heart and in return captured the charming thief. The young fellow proposed and was accepted, and with all possible dispatch the wedding day was fixed. But the colonel of the expectant bridegroom's regiment was strongly opposed to the lieutenant marrying, and telegraphed an unwelcome "join at once" to the anxious sub.

The chagrined soldier handed the peremptory message to his fair one. She glanced at it and then, with a becoming blush of sweet simplicity, remarked:

"I am more than glad, dear, that your colonel approves of your choice; but what a hurry he is in for the wedding. I don't think I can be ready quite so soon, but I'll try, for, of course, the colonel must be obeyed."

"But you don't seem to understand the telegram, sweetheart," said the lieutenant. "It says every plan we have made. You see, he says, 'Join at once.'"

"Certainly, he does, dear," replied the lady, looking up with an arch smile. "But it is you who don't seem to understand it. When the colonel says 'join at once,' what does he mean but get married immediately? What else, indeed, can he possibly mean?"

"What else, indeed, darling?" he lightly exclaimed the ardent lover, rejoicing in the new reading, which he received with the utmost alacrity. So 48 hours had scarcely passed before the colonel received the following: "Your orders have been carried out. We were joined at once!"—London World.

Physical Degeneracy.

Interesting facts regarding the question of physical degeneracy in England have been furnished by old north measurements. A firm in the north of England has compared the measurements for clothing made two generations ago with those of to-day, the results going up show that chest and hip measurements are now three inches on the average more than they were sixty years ago. The same conclusion is reached by the experience of the ready-made clothing, who, it is said nearly always find that the present-day wearers of clothing require distinctly larger sizes than their ancestors.

Feathers of the Hen.

A unique feather guessing contest was recently conducted by a company manufacturing feed for poultry. Five hundred dollars in prizes was offered for the best guesses as to the number of feathers on a hen. The first prize was $100. Thousands of guesses were received, including some amusing ones. One person, who was probably looking for some "catch" scheme, estimated "none at all." Many estimates in the hundreds of thousands were received, several in the millions, the highest estimate being 600,000,017. The correct number was found to be 8,120.

Newspapers in Paris.

There are about a hundred and fifty daily newspapers in Paris. Some of them have enormous circulations. According to figures given in the current number of the "Mercure de France," the "Petit Parisien" has a sale of 1,500,000; "Le Journal," 750,000; "Le Petit Journal," 800,000, and the "Matin," 400,000.

Quick Multiplication.

A salmon has been known to produce 10,000,000 eggs in one season; some female spiders produce 2,000 eggs. A queen bee has produced 100,000 eggs in a season. One pair of rabbits can become multiplied in four years into 1,250,000.

BUTTS TRAIN TO STANDSTILL

After Which the Rhinoceros Ambled Away to the Jungle.

From Zanzibar, equatorial East Africa, comes the story of a "collision" on the Wyanda railway, British East Africa, that would be possible nowhere else on earth, says the New York World.

A huge bull rhinoceros rushed out of the bush and charged at full speed the so-called "up-mixed" train, which was slowing down, February 14th, as it approached the station Sultan Hamud, 218 miles from Mombasa, on the coast, where the road starts. It was still dark, just before daylight. The train was traveling eight or ten miles an hour when the infuriated pachyderm attacked it on the flank. Perhaps the great brute had been aroused from sleep by the growler monitor, whose one big shining eye nearly blinded him. But the rhinoceros, lord of that region, was nothing for the huge bulk of the unknown intruder, hurled himself upon it.

The engineer felt a series of shocks, of which the first was so violent as to throw two passengers from their sleeping berths to the floor.

The train was stopped and the passengers turned out, most of them in their "robes of night" and some of them badly scared.

The "rhino" was discovered about 100 yards down the track. The impact with the train had felled him but had not cooled his rage. Slowly he raised himself and stood defiantly shaking his head.

Some of the more "sporting" passengers got their rifles and opened fire on the rhinoceros. But the light was uncertain, and probably the mighty beast was not hit. Slowly he returned to the jungle, and was last sight.

He did not escape unharmed from the strange encounter, for pieces of his thick skin were found adhering to the train. But the fierceness of his assault smashed the engine step and splintered the inch and a half thick footboard of the first carriages.

Life on the Wyanda railway, which penetrates the very darkest Africa, is always sufficiently exciting. When the road was building in 1899 man-eating lions pursued the native laborers with much appetite. The laborers refused to work until a stockade was built around them. Nevertheless the hungry lions carried off several men, including a European railway official.

Experience in interior of Russia.

An Englishwoman residing in the interior of Russia thus describes her housekeeping experience. "As moist sugar is unobtainable on the steppe, one is obliged to break up a huge two-pound or three-pound lump into pieces and crush in a pestle and mortar. I believe that chums may be procured in big towns, but they would be very expensive, and the English residents in country villages, who do not care for the smoke-flavored Cossack butter, make their own by shaking cream in a big bottle. The Cossack servants are capital laundry women, though their washing appliances are somewhat primitive; they use large, low wooden troughs to wash the clothes in and boil them in open boilers. The system of mangling is rather curious; first, they wrap the rather carefully around a wooden roller, like a pastry pin, then press it up and down a board covered with nicks, loosely laid on the table. Consequently, this makes a chatter, more deafening, if less irritating, than the tinless squeak of the British mangle. Although the summers are intensely hot in Cossack land, yet the mistress of the household has her trouble to keep milk and other foods sweet there than in England, for every house above the rank of cottage has its icehouse, which is refilled during the latter part of the winter with huge blocks of ice brought, perhaps, many miles across the frozen steppe from distant lake or river, in the bullock carts."

Glue as Hair Oil.

A southern cotton planter had on his plantation a little boy in buttons called "Sam." Sam one afternoon pointed to a bottle on his master's bureau, and said: "Mars Channing, am dat hair oil?" Mercy, no, Sam, 'dat's glue," said the planter. "I guess dass why I can't git mah cap off," said Sam, thoughtfully.

Broiled Steak.

Take a loin of flank steak, dip in boiling water until meat turns white, have a tablespoon of lard and butter, half and half—melt in a fat pan, lay steak in grease and then put it on broiler, broil with grease as you turn, steak, which must be very few minutes. If you broil over coals sprinkle a little salt on coals, it will prevent the drippings from blazing and scorching steak. After the meat is done, salt and pepper to taste, pour rest of melted grease over and serve on a hot platter, garnished with fried potatoes and parsley.

Cold Cream.

No toilet table is complete without a jar of cold cream made of oil of white poppy, four ounces; oil of almonds, two ounces; white wax, one-half ounce; balsam of Peru, two drams. Melt the wax, add the oils and beat together until they form a cream, then add the balsam and lastly a little rosewater. This is an emollient which may be used with good effect, once or twice a week, after the bath, to whiten and soften the hands, neck and arms.

How the Tibetan Lives.

The Tibetan houses are from two to three stories in height. In winter, the Tibetan lives below alongside of the animals and fodder, and in summer he sleeps in loosely-built booths of poplar branches on the roof.

POULTRY

GREEN FEEDS FOR FOWLS.

It Furnishes Considerable Amount Nutritive Material.

The green feeds which are justly considered so important add to the palatability of the ration, furnish a considerable amount of nutritive material, and undoubtedly help to maintain hens in good condition. The New York State station recommends for this purpose the more nitrogenous forage plants such as clover, alfalfa, and immature grasses. "These feeds also contain more of the needed lime than do grains." It must be remembered that fowls are not fitted to depend too largely upon bulky feed and that the proportion of grain in the ration must always be fairly large. According to Prof. Wheeler, another and very important reason, which is sometimes overlooked for using such foods as young clover, fresh or dried, is the effect on the color of the egg yolk. He says:

"Eggs from hens which are fed only certain grain and animal substances generally have yolks of a pale yellow color. This is often objected to by those who have a preference for eggs with dark, orange-colored yolks. The liberal feeding of fresh or dried young clover, alfalfa, or grass will generally insure the deeper coloration. The cause of this frequent lack of
